Candidates for U.S. Senate

FOR

James B. Donovan, the Democratic nominee for U. S. Senate, is seen by his supporters as a man of many proven talents. . . Now a practicing attorney and vice president of the New York City Board of Education, his record includes unusual service to his country in time of both war and peace . . . During World War II he was Associate General Counsel of the Office of Strategic Services, and at the Nuremberg Trials was Associate Prosecutor in charge of all visual evidence against the Nazi war criminals . . . He was a commander in the U. S. Navy and holds the Legion of Merit Commendation Ribbon with cluster, among other awards . . . Mr.

Donovan engineered the sensational "spy swap" in Moscow involving the release of American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Russian agent Rudolph Abel . . . Recently he has been negotiating for release of the Cuban invaders held prisoner by Castro.

AGAINST—Opponents of Mr. Donovan declare his total lack of experience as an elected public official leaves him poorly equipped to attempt service as a U. S. Senator. They assert his campaign efforts have demonstrated his political immaturity.
